

WESTERLY

The superior court for Washington county convened in Westerly Tuesday with Judge Barrows presiding. Judge Sumner as presiding justice. The first case was the two brought by Baptiste Bottonelli against the Westerly Automatic Telephone company, which by agreement of counsel John Ferguson for plaintiff, and Samuel H. Davis for defendant company, are being tried together.

The jury impaneled to hear the case is composed as follows: George W. Westlake, foreman; Benjamin B. Bray, Jr.; Albert E. Saunders of North Kingstown; Roger F. Dunham, Joseph J. Down, James Dowd of Westerly; Morris T. Champlin, William A. Perry, David F. Sherman, of South Kingstown; George W. Sherrington of Richmond; Walter E. Place, of Exeter; William D. Greene, of Hopkinton.

The state jurors were sworn until Thursday morning at 10:30.

Attorney Ferguson stated to the jury that August 12, 1917, Mr. Bottonelli, his wife Anna and daughter Alice, were out in the fields along the Post road, or River avenue, picking berries. They went into a lot and Alice seeing a wire across the path, picked it up to throw it aside, so that it would not obstruct their passage. The girl was thrown to the ground and screamed for help. Her mother rushed to her assistance, picked the child up and the mother was also thrown to the ground. The father, who was walking in the rear rushed to the assistance of his wife and daughter and was thrown back by the electric shock, but was not injured as he happened to wear rubber heels and soled shoes. He finally managed to free his wife and daughter from the electrically charged wire.

The wire was owned by the Westerly Telephone company, and had been permitted to sag against the electric light wire, finally parted, the ends falling into the electric wires, becoming charged with electricity and thence lying along the ground. It is claimed that the company was negligent in not giving proper care and inspection, neglected to give attention to this particular wire after it had been reported down, as it was in use by the company that the pole line at this point was inadequate, and that the poles that once supported this fallen wire were 245 feet apart, instead of the regulated 130 feet; that a supporting pole had been broken off just below the cross arms and had never been replaced. If the company had exercised due diligence and proper inspection, the accident would not have happened.

Mr. Bottonelli, as next of his to his daughter, Alice, brings suit to recover damages for injuries received. She was severely burned in the hands and legs, suffered pain, was prevented from attending school and was unable to use her power for a long period. The other action is to recover for the loss of service of Mrs. Bottonelli, who was as severely burned that it was feared she would die from the effects. Her general physical condition has been seriously impaired and she was practically helpless for several weeks.

After Mr. Ferguson completed his statement to the jury, which he proposed to maintain by testimony, court took a recess while the judges and jurors, accompanied by the attorneys took a view of the scene of the accident.

The testimony was borne when court resumed and it is believed will continue through Wednesday and perhaps Thursday morning.

Among the indictments returned by the grand jury of the United States district court, was one against Joseph H. Charles Raymond Blake, first lieutenant, Air Service, pilot 7th Aviation instruction center. For extraordinary heroism in action near La Forge Farm, France, August 3, 1918. Lieutenant Blake, with Second Lieutenant Earl W. Potter, observer, while on a reconnaissance expedition at a low altitude far beyond the enemy lines, was attacked by five German airplanes. His observer was wounded at the beginning of the combat, but he maneuvered his plane so skillfully that the observer was able to shoot down one of their adversaries. Blake's observer, who was severely wounded, was unable to use his power for a long period. The other action is to recover for the loss of service of Mrs. Bottonelli, who was as severely burned that it was feared she would die from the effects. Her general physical condition has been seriously impaired and she was practically helpless for several weeks.
